

6B Aliza Mehar

Changes in Hong Kong

In this article, it will compare the difference between Hong Kong's past and present.

About jobs, people were either farmers or fishermen in the past. Nowadays, people are either teachers or shopkeepers. In the past, people travelled by either tram or train, only rich people travelled by sedan chair. Nowadays, people travelled by either car or bus.

About housing, people lived in neither flats nor housing estates. In the past, people lived in either huts or fishing village. Nowadays, people live in either tall buildings or mansions.

Back in the days, people played either football or hopscotch for entertainment. Nowadays, people play either computer games or watch television to pass the time.

To conclude, as technology was not advanced in the past, life in Hong Kong was much simpler. Nowadays, life in Hong Kong is comfortable and convenient because people do not need to work on the farm or field.